October 2024 | Issue No. 59 | A monthly newsletter

Hello readers! This month's issue captures the vibrant spirit of celebration at Prabhat, from Navratri garbas to the sparkle of Diwali festivities. Enjoy the read!

On the joyous occasion of Diwali and Gujarati New Year, we at Prabhat Education Foundation extend our heartfelt wishes to all. May the seeds of equality take deep root, nourished by affection and sensitivity, and grow stronger in the coming year. Together, let us continue our journey towards building a truly inclusive community. Wishing you all a Happy Diwali and a prosperous New Year!

The Skyline speaks: Be The Reason

This Diwali season, Prabhat's journey toward inclusion was illuminated in a unique way. Through a meaningful partnership with Swati Procon Group, the concept of an inclusive community found its way to the streets of Ahmedabad—quite literally. Swati Procon's advocacy effort featured professional photoshoots of Prabhat's children on vibrant hoardings across the West Zone, with a powerful call to action: "Be the reason for their celebration."

The hoardings, displayed in prominent locations, carried an undeniable message of inclusion. Beyond awareness, they inspired emotion and action—prompting viewers to reflect, support, and engage. For families of Prabhat's children, this visibility was a source of immense pride, reinforcing the values of equality and belonging.

Adding to the festivities, Swati Procon welcomed Prabhat's children for a special celebration at their office, hosting games and distributing thoughtful gifts. The event, paired with the impactful advocacy through the billboards, demonstrated how businesses and communities can collaborate to amplify the message of inclusion and equality.

This initiative not only strengthened Prabhat's outreach but also reaffirmed the belief that the seeds of inclusion, when nurtured, can flourish across society.

Festive Spirits Uniting all

Employees from Big Burger, now cherished friends of Prabhat, brought joy to the centers by engaging in games, dancing, and sharing a hearty meal with the children, making their Diwali celebrations truly special.

On an individual level, many well-wishers visited to share gifts and sweets, spreading festive cheer. Mr. Kiranbhai Bhatt, Corporator of Maninagar, graced the Bhaipura Center with drawing books and crayons, while expressing his commitment to supporting Prabhat in every way.

When Prabhat reflects on its journey and listens to these stories, it sees a transformation—the gaze once shadowed by pity now shines with acceptance. A new narrative is unfolding, one of empathy and empowerment, inspiring us to dream further.

A Diya for Every Heart...

Diwali at Prabhat has not merely been about celebrating a festival; it has always provided an opportunity—a heartfelt tradition—to express gratitude to the countless companions who walk with us on the path toward an inclusive community. Two months before the festival, the quiet corners of Prabhat’s centers transform into bustling hubs of creativity. Small diyas, humble yet symbolic, are lovingly decorated by children, parents, volunteers, and team members, each stroke of color carrying a message of warmth and thankfulness.

Diwali at Prabhat has not merely been about celebrating a festival; it has always provided an opportunity—a heartfelt tradition—to express gratitude to the countless companions who walk with us on the path toward an inclusive community. Two months before the festival, the quiet corners of Prabhat’s centers transform into bustling hubs of creativity. Small diyas, humble yet symbolic, are lovingly decorated by children, parents, volunteers, and team members, each stroke of color carrying a message of warmth and thankfulness.

The joy of this tradition extends beyond Prabhat. Children from neighboring schools join the activity with eager hands and open hearts, adding their artistry to the lamps. These diyas, crafted with boundless love, become more than objects—they carry a piece of every individual’s gratitude and innovation, a reflection of trust that Prabhat nurtures in all.

This year too, our Diwali began in the same heartfelt way, as these Diyas were offered to our partners, and well-wishers. These diyas, glowing with the collective spirit of the Prabhat family, symbolize the light that our supporters have brought into the lives of our children.

As we share these lamps, we hold a simple yet profound wish: may the diyas brighten their lives as much as they have illuminated ours. Through these acts of giving, we hope to reinforce the bond of mutual trust and gratitude, carrying forward the light of inclusion and hope into another year.

Children at each center celebrated Diwali with joy, indulging in delicious food, favorite games, crackers, and gifts. Sweets were distributed, symbolizing sweetness for the year ahead.

Community and Culture Converge at Navratri

Every festival has become an opportunity for children to learn, create, and celebrate joyfully.

This Navratri, the children from Kankaria School No. 8 resource room crafted vibrant Navratri cards and hair-bow accessories using wool, ribbons, and pearls, blending creativity with cultural appreciation. Meanwhile, children from Barrel Market celebrated with equal enthusiasm, enjoying the spirit of the festival while gaining valuable learning experiences.

Navratri celebrations extended at Prabhat, bringing together children, families, staff, and community volunteers for a joyous evening of Garba, shared laughter, and cherished memories. The festive gathering, complete with delicious food and heartfelt conversations, has become a beloved tradition that strengthens community bonds year after year. Parents eagerly await this occasion, as it fosters a sense of belonging and shared celebration. Such moments highlight the beauty of inclusivity and the power of coming together as one community.
